RECORDINGS OF LONG WALKS

The formation of The Mountain Club was mainly centred around rock-climbing. Gradually, long walks were found necessary to get fit for the yearly Alps trip. Many of us, who were not natural rock climbers entered into the spirit of competition against time, weather and the mountains.

The first walk to be an annual battle was instigated by Eric Byne. The Sixteen Stones in Derbyshire. It is likely that a number of attempts and successes also occurred on the Welsh 3,000's but details before 1958 are not known. Information not listed would be very welcome.

In a later issue of the magazine further details will be added on the other notes named walks.

These would include:-

Cottage to Cader and back.
Lyke Wake Walk.
Three Peaks, Yorkshire.
Sixteen Stones, Peak District.
